1. Directives issued to the leading German political agent in TURKEY of the HIGHWEISS T. agent by WALTER SCHLESINGER, his chief in BUDAPEST, after the capture in Turkish-German relations gives a clear indication that the German aim continues to be to try to drive a wedge between the "Anglo-Saxons" and the Soviet Union.
2. The directive indicates that intelligence most urgently wanted comes under three heads:
  - a. All political intelligence having any bearing upon relations between the Soviet Union on one hand and the American and British on the other.
  - b. Any intelligence which is judged to build up a background for the possibility of a compromise peace with the British and Americans.
  - c. Information on possible political action taken by Turkey as a safeguard against the Russian demand. In particular, a close watch should be kept for any other political action taken in this connection by the British government. Anything bearing upon their attitude toward Soviet or communist in the Balkans should be reported immediately.
